This lively anthology of spirited backtalk introduces the "reply poem" - a form in which the female subject of a male poet tells her side of the story. These poems are addressed to every level of the male-dominated poetry canon - from the Bible to Bukowski - and range in tone from wryly amused to fiercely outraged. Contributions to The Muse Strikes Back include work from Akhmatova, Atwood ...

The Muse Strikes Back: A Poetic Response by Women to Men ...

In the chapter on La Composee, subtitled "The Muse Strikes Back," Sabiston acknowledges that, for Bouraoui, "the binary opposition between male and female ... has ended in our time" (133). It is then hard to know who was striking back at whom and to what purpose, and, in such a context, the distinction between male and female narratology becomes less clear.
